

I struggled with the vigenere cipher but I just tried a few different algorithms until I found one that worked.

I used the Python documentation for help.

An example of some code that might be duplicated is encrypting and decrypting. To help with this, I just built in decryption to the encryption function so it's in one block of code.